MARKA-E-HAQ
PAKISTAN'S RESOLVE FOR SOVEREIGNTY AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT
SPECIAL POSTAGE STAMP
AUGUST 14, 2025

- Pakistan's journey towards sovereignty has been marked by decades of resilience, sacrifice, and a collective will to shape its destiny. Since independence, the nation has faced recurring challenges, from geopolitical pressures to climate vulnerabilities, yet has remained steadfast in its pursuit of self-reliance. The Marka-e-Haq stamp symbolizes this historic struggle, representing the right of every Pakistani to live with dignity, to prosper through their potential, and to secure an economy that reflects the aspirations of its people.

- Building on this resolve, Pakistan's development programme reflects an ambitious agenda to transform the country into a regional economic hub. Strategic investments in infrastructure, energy, industrial zones, and digital connectivity drive an improved economic take-off, with national development indicators showing 96% progress across key sectors. Through flagship initiatives like Uraan Pakistan, export diversification, climate-resilient agriculture, and innovation-driven entrepreneurship, Pakistan is positioning itself not only as a growth engine for South Asia but also as a key player in shaping the future of global economy.

- The Government of Pakistan has consistently pursued policies to safeguard the economic rights of its citizens while advocating for fairness in the global financial and trading systems. Through initiatives focused on structural reforms, industrial revival, and agricultural modernization, Pakistan is working to reduce inequality and expand opportunities for all sections of society. As the nation moves towards Vision 2030, Marka-e-Haq serves as a national pledge that true independence is not merely about borders, but about creating an economy based on equity, productivity, and shared progress.

- The global economic landscape emphasizes the need to establish fair and inclusive development mechanisms. Pakistan urges the international community to support equitable trade systems, climate justice frameworks, and technology transfer agreements that help developing nations break free from dependency cycles. Marka-e-Haq thus serves as both a domestic appeal for change and an international call for a rules-based global economy that honours the sovereignty and hopes of all nations.

- Economic sovereignty is essential for Pakistan's long-term security and stability. Through flagship programmes like Uraan Pakistan, China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC), energy diversification, and digital transformation, Pakistan is establishing a resilient economy that emphasises innovation, human capital development, and sustainable resource management. These initiatives aim to safeguard the economic rights of both current and future generations, ensuring progress remains inclusive and irreversible.

- The Government reaffirms its commitment to transparency, accountability, and good governance as essential pillars of economic justice. Empowering youth, women, and marginalized communities is seen not only as a moral obligation but also as a strategic necessity for unlocking national potential. Marka-e-Haq honours millions of hardworking Pakistanis—farmers, labourers, entrepreneurs, and professionals—whose contributions form the backbone of the country's economic progress.

- Pakistan further urges international financial institutions and development partners to align their policies with the principles of equity and shared prosperity. Development cooperation must move beyond aid paradigms towards partnerships that respect sovereignty and enable sustainable growth. This includes fair debt restructuring mechanisms, climate adaptation financing, and market access for developing countries.

- Marka-e-Haq honours the sacrifices of the past and the ambitions of the future. It embodies the spirit of a nation that refuses to be defined by its challenges, instead choosing to define itself through courage, reform, and innovation. As Pakistan stands at a pivotal moment in its history, this special postage stamp is not only a commemorative symbol but also a declaration: Pakistan will protect its economic rights, uphold the dignity of its people, and continue its march towards a self-sustaining, just, and prosperous future.
